- ⇒ 28% needed Injector Maintenance
- ⇒ 19% needed Belt Replacement (say "Hello Scorching Sun" if one of these snaps on you)
- ⇒ 16% had dirty, clogged up Air Filters
- ⇒ 10% had unsafe and contaminated Brake Systems

If any of the above rings true for you, how much fuel efficiency are the results costing you at the pump?

All in all, the statistical data below shows the affects on your gas consumption when you turn the other cheek to the following areas:

- ⇒ Tire Pressure - 4%
- ⇒ Oil Changes - 2%
- ⇒ Injector Maintenance - 5%
- ⇒ Air Filters - 10%
- ⇒ Tune-ups - up to 4%
- ⇒ And the biggie... Oxygen Sensors - up to a whopping 40%

Not to mention, the harmful and poisonous emissions you transfer into our ecosystem from faulty vehicle maintenance. We all should "Go Green" as much as possible...

So, here's what YOU can do right now to kick-start your savings and protect OUR environment.

If you've been looking for ways to fight back against the "Pinch at the Pump", then you'll want to read this entire article.

Local auto repair shop owner, Gary Hindenes, knows many of the cars his shop repairs can do "a heck of a lot better for themselves..." when it comes to proper vehicle maintenance which saves you substantial money at the gas pump.

According to the U.S. Department of Energy, if your car has a faulty oxygen sensor, a repair could work miracles on your gas mileage, up to a whopping 40%. "That's a significant amount of savings for something so easy to test..." says Gary.

And that's not all, Gary shared eye-popping facts from a large national study of vehicle inspections. Findings include the following shocking results:

- ⇒ 54% had incorrect Tire Pressure
- ⇒ 38% needed an Oil Change
